Echo Celebrates 80th Birthday

by Marileen Maher Echo News Editor

The Sea Coast Echo, one of Mississippi's oldest and largest weekly newspapers, celebrated its eightieth anniversary last Sunday. The paper, which was first published January 9, 1892, was founded by Charles Moreau, a young man who had moved to Bay St. Louis from New Orleans, Moreau operated the paper until his death in November, 1941 just before the Echo's fiftieth anniversary.

Since Moreau's death, the paper has changed hands several times until it was purchased in 1958 by Bay St. Louis Newspapers, Inc. from Powell Glass Jr. During Glass' ownership, the Echo was combined with the Waveland Advocate and the Hancock County Eagle.

The paper, which was converted from a letterpress to an offset operation in 1956, now has more than 4500 readers. Recently, the Echo began publishing a Long Beach-Pass Christian edition to serve those two communities in Harrison County.

"The Echo owes its success to the people of Hancock County and we will continue to work for the betterment of this area," commented Edward Hall. editor and publisher

Reflections . .

Starting this week the Echo will give readers a weekly glimpse into the past, through early photographs of some of the old homes and scenes of Hancock County.

There are those for whom the photographs will recall fond memories. Others, too young to remember, will have an opportunity to see a style of architecture indigenous to the coast and representing a life style which will never be seen

The photographs, most of them 40 to 50 years old, are printed through the courtesy of Mrs. R. Terrell Perkins and are from a collection belonging to her late husband. Unfortunately, most of the homes pictured are gone, lost to the ravages of time and the elements and in several cases, Hospital in March 1958, he walked into a macistrom of strife and upheaval.

Local Government In Action

What he found in records and financial administration would have discouraged the most intrepid soul. Without pulling old chestnuts out of the fire, we feel some brief background is in order, to afford local citizenry. a clearer basis for evaluation of the hospital's present status.

The ideal situation is to walk into a superbly organized and smoothly-run organization, To take over the reins under the conditions existing in 1965 and 1966 is something else again.

HOSPITAL FIGURES In November, 1965, Hancock General had 44 beds and an be leased or given to a private years old or on welfare sub-Hospital records show $37,601 in collections for that month, and a disbursement total of $38,588. Although these figures are incomplete, no further details system of bookkeeping. The hospital had a total of 89 emplovees. In October of that year internal strife at the hospital became public knowledge as nurses and other staff members appealed to the county board of supervisors for a closer look into the hospital administration. Eight nurses threatened to resign over differences with the administrator and chief of nurses. Personality conflicts between members of the medical staff as well as the hospital board added to the general atmosphere discontent. A lengthy list of complaints against the two administrative heads was submitted to the hospital board by several R.N.'s, signed by the staff doctors and was finally brought to the attention of county supervisors.

The board called for a thorough investigation into hospital affairs, their action endorsed publically by local Jaycees and the American Legion.

INVESTIGATION ENDORSED

.The supervisor of nurses was discharged in late '65 and on March 3, 1966 the hospital board engaged the services of a Chicago physicianand authority on hospital management to conduct the investigation.

On March 17, the ministrator resigned and the last day of that month, H.J. Blackledge was hired for the position by unanimous vote of he hospital board, and with the approval of county supervisors. NEW CHIEF

Bill Blackledge came to Hancock County from Laurel, Miss. where he had been administrator of Jones Cou Hospital for three years.

He attended Jones County Junior College and received a B.S. in pharmacy from the University of Mississippi. He has done graduate work in accounting at the University of Southern Mississippi. He served with the U.S. Marine Corps in 1945-46 and later spent seven years in the U.S. Naval Medical Corps.

He went to Jones County Hospital in 1952 as registered pharmacist, then moved up to purchasing agent, office manager, assistant ministrator and finally, chief administrator.

Blackledge established the first poison control center in Mississippi while in Laurel, then working with the state department of health, set up a chain of centers through out the Who's Who in the South and Southwest since 1967.

By Mrs. Della Wendling

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Bounds, Jr., was christened Sunday Dec. 26 at Our Lady of the Gulf, with the Rev. Johnson officiating. Sponsors were Monroe

Bounds, a paternal uncle, and Layne Wendling.

Mrs. Lee Ferrell of Waveland, REPORT In April, Dr. Charles Letourneau's 44-page in-depth report on Hancock General Hospital gave an essentially favorable evaluation of the hospital and staff of physicians' services.

However, Letourneau strongly recommended rather drastic changes in hospital supervision and operating rules and regulations. The report stated in part,

"The hospital is well managed and gives good care in spite of the present system of political patronage which must eventually destroy the quality of the hospital...." He recommended the hospital

non-profit organization or a religious group for operation. different category. Failing this, he said a complete revision of by-laws, rules and regulations should be effected. The medical staff should be were available according to the "diluted" with new doctors with immediate voting rights, he maintained, as Letourneau felt the medical staff at that time was too small for effective medical staff discipline. NEW SYSTEMS

Although supervisors did not adopt Letourneau's initial recommendation for relinquishing control of the hospital, the administrator with full approval of the hospital board did follow his alternative suggestion. A complete change in bookkeeping, patient admissions and charges was put into effect. There was no evidence of a billing system and this was one of the first innovations. Staff schedules and pay scales were revised to relieve the underpaid and overburdened personnel.

Today, Hancock General has expanded to 56 beds, with 105 employees, slightly short of the national average of 2.9 employees per bed. Seven doctors are listed on the medical staff and a nursing staff numbers 61, which includes R.N.'s, L.P.N.'s, nursing assistants, ward clerks and a surgical technician.

Administrative and departmental heads include besides Blackledge, Mrs. Mona Duchkar Santiago, assistant administrator; Miss Dorothy Bruce, medical records librarian; Miss Yvonne Artigues, R.D., dietician; Curtis Hegwood, M.T.-ASCP, chief laboratory technician; Jennifer Moran, A.R.T., chief X-ray technician; Mrs. Louise Hammer , CRNA, anesthetist.

Mrs. Denise Mac Dowell, RN. is director of nursing services, Mrs. Marion Dunseath executive housekeeper, Joseph Williams, chief engineer, Geraldine Remel, operating room supervisor and Erskine Skelton, purchasing dept. head. Blackledge also serves as pharmacist. Dr. M.L. Dodson is chief of staff.

Although the daily patient load annual average of 39 is pretty much the same as it was in 1966, the hospital's income and disbursement figures have shown a considerable increase. Revenue derived from patient services (total operating revenue) last November was 887.888 and expenses totaled $86,037. It should be understood that the above revenue figure is not to be confused with income, which includes collections and county millage. Income for the month of November was $79,071.

According to Mrs. Santiago, these figures are low as "November is always a bad state. He has been listed in month for collections". Auditors' reports show that, on an overall average, the hospital has operated in the black since 1967 STATE PATIENT AID

One of the main things that plague hospital administrators is the prevalent misunderstanding concerning state aid to patients. Very often patients come into the hospital expecting to be extended state aid. Some consternation as well as resentment toward the hospital results when they are told they are ineligible. State rules governing eligibility requirements call for a monthly income of $105 or less in nongarnishable wages. The patient must also be under 65-years old and physically unable to earn a higher income. Patients over 65 sistance are assisted under a

> MEASURES OF IMPROVEMENT ...

There have been a number of improvements and added facilities at the hospital in the past several years. The institution can now operate solely on its own water and electrical syetem in case of emergencies. Operating room equipment has been constantly upgraded and laboratory facilities expanded. The most recent acquisition of a trailer permanently installed adjacent to the back wing will provide sleeping quarters for on-call doctors as well as visiting physicians, a records library, kitchen and conference

Hospital board members have hoped to construct a cardiac addition to the hospital and a special fund for that contingency was set up. Some months back, bids for the addition were prohibitively high preventing the facility from becoming a reality at that time. The project has not been abandoned, however.

Blackledge said through the constant cooperation of the hospital board just about every request of the medical staff for improvements and medical equipment have been met. He stated, "This is one of the finest equipped hospitals for its size in the state, and this is principally due to the board. He also paid tribute to the two past boards of supervisors for not only their cooperation but for the lack of conflict through the past six years.

Fund Established For Mrs. Giles

A wonderful honor has come to Hancock County. Our own 70-year-old Mrs. Arnette Gles of Pearlington will be going to Washington in the early part of February, to be counted among the Nation's eight top humanitarians, to be honored by President and Mrs. Richard Nixon and many. of our country's leaders at a banquet to be held in Kennedy Center. Through the work of the National Center for Voluntary Action two $5,000 awardswill be given to bring attention to "unsung volunteer heroes". The first prize will be awarded to the most outstanding volunteer worker and the second $5,000 will go to the group having performed the greatest achievements in helping the handicapped and the disadvantaged.

Mrs. Glles will receive the recognition and acclaim of the whole nation, and we would like her to go to Washington with the backing and support of the people of Hancock County. We know of the compassion of our citizens, their unity following the Camille disaster, and their continued support of the United Fund in their work of helping others. Reverend Bernard Welton, Pastor of the Main Street Methodist Church and Mrs. C.C. McDonald, Jr. have established a fund to defray some of the expenses of Reverend and Mrs. Giles and the nine local delegates who willaccompany them to Washington. The cost of the trip for the Giles will be paid by the Center, but there are expenses over and above this (clothing, etc. are extra). The Arnette Glies Fund will be handled by the Bay St. Louis Hancock Bank, and all contributions should be sent there.

Mrs. Giles has the love and gratitude of the countless children she has helped, white and black alike, for in hercompassion for others, she regards no color or creed, but is guided only by her desire to help those in need.

When you drive around Bay St. Louis, do you sometimes wonder what the old place looked like in the early days of settlement? Almost everything was different then, say around 1820, as you can well Imagine; but make no mistake; life in those days had just as serious complication, the not so many of them, as it has today. But what about the town itself, then called Shieldsborough? There were some two hundred people living here then, perhaps more. What did they do, and how did they earn their living, and how did they amuse themselves?

Most of the homes were in two locations, along the beachfront and along the little creek which roughly paralleled the beach from the big natural spring to where it emptied into the bay about where the bridge is now. Three or four houses were grouped near the small Indian mound in what is now the center of town; two stores and several houses were centered on the beach at the foot of Main Street. but the most populated part of town was along the old road called the Spanish Trail with stores and homes sparsely scattered along the road from Main Street eastward to the ferry crossing on the beachfront. At that time there were probably no more than a scant dozen stores in the whole community, most of them so small as to be insignificant. A few more homes were scattered along the shore on the other side of the present bridge, and a small trade was carried on with boats which occasionally anchored there to unload goods from Mobile and New Orleans. There was no Highway 90 a hundred and fifty years ago, but at the end of the Spanish Trail there was a dirt road, or rather path, which lead westward to the Pearl River through the Piney Woods, on which farmers from the river communities occasionally brought grain and meat, and, artifacts to sell in Shieldsborough and took back with them homemade products and fish. The most traveled road at that time, aside from the Spanish Trail, was the one

People worked at what they or near the beach, and occasionally social gatherings could do best, raised a good part of their food, enjoyed the occasional social gatherings, and got excited about politics, just as they do today. An encampment of a regiment of the Eighth Infantry just outside the town brought several hundred voung men into the social life and gave business a substantial lift. Altogether one would say that the people of Shieldsborough had as good a life as we have today, without some of our advantages and also without many of our problems what is the definition of a private brand?

To some people, it is a retailer's own brand created with selling price first in importance and quality second.

To us at A&P, it's the opposite.

Quality comes first.

Value...the best for the least is the rule for our private brands,

If this wasn't true, how foolish we'd be to invest, as we have, literally millions of dollars in processing plants and testing laboratories. If all we wanted were products we could sell cheaping without quality control, anybody could produce them for us

The idea of quality private brands isn't new at A&P. As a matter of fact, it's one of our oldest policiesand by golly, we're proud of it.

Are A&P Private Brands a good reason for shopping A&P? They're one of many.

The VHF or commercial television channel selector for most television receivers utilizes a numbered dial which clicks into place. However, the UHF channel selector is the non-click type, and the movement is similar to that of a radio selector dial. On some VHF-UHF receivers, it may be necessary to (1) turn the VHF selector dial to the spot marked UHF and then (2) turn the UHF dial until the UHF signal is reached. when parests are accused not of infairly pushing a marriage but of infairly breaking one up. For example: A mother was sued by

Scientists Dig Aleskan Trensvres

The most extensive trassure hunt in American History is taking place in Alaska where archaeologists are searching for sincient artifacts, which may provide solid evidence that the state was a major passageway for migration of the first inhabitants of the Western

Since 1969, scientists have been digging earnestly in the interior of Alaska and so far have uncovered more than 10,000 artifacts at 200 different sites. Based on significant discoveries, archae logists speculate that the original human occupants of North and South America first arrived in the New World some 50,000 to 60,000 years

It also is believed this early migration took many thousands of years and that Alaska was a major oc-cupation zone during the slow movement of people into America.

The present Alaskan archaeological research came about as a result of another treasure hunt, the successful search' for oil on the state's barren North Slope. To move the oil into the nation's economy an 800 mile pipeline is expected to be built and its path will cover areas where archaeological secrets are believed buried.

Builders of the proposed pipeline are footing the bill for the historic research and salvage project so that no valuable artifacts will be either disturbed or destroyed when construction of the pipeline begins.

The project, which is the largest scientific operation of kind ever conducted in North America, signals a major precedent in modern archaeology. The pipeline sponsored survey serves as a model for construction work in other states, where possible archaeological secrets still may be buried and awaiting discovery.

Ecology And "American Pie"

Don McLean is a hard man to pin down. There are so many sides to this young poetsinger, whose latest release United Artists is currently soaring up the record charts.

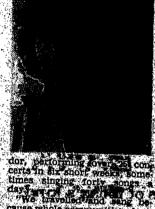

A songpoet with two albums to his credit, he is highly inventive, totally unique and has been mentioned in the same breath with James Taylor, Neil Young and Elton John. And yet he is like none of them,

When he sings it is about waste and pollution, Pete Seeger and the Beatles, Buddy Holly and the Rolling Stones His songs apparently express a lot of the feeling of his generation, for his latest record, 'American Pie," is selling phenomenally well in every corner of the country.

"American Pie" is as veried a record as Don is a person. It begins with a nine-minute song that bears the title of the album and is a look at the last ten years in music, culture and politics. Although it itures a simple, unforget table chorus, the verses are terpretation, and some radio stations are even running contests to see who can interpret the song best. Don will tell you that he doesn't believe in writing single songs, that his music runs in patterns, with many songs linked to make a broad and fresh statement about the way the world is today. One thing that appears again and again in Don's work is his deep concern with ecology. in was active in the struggle for cleaner water and air long before it became a national fashion, having traveled up and down the Hudson nging about the message of ecology, One of the oris of the antipollution sloop, The Clearwa-

Great grandson of one of the rst presidents of the DAR. McLean believes in taking a strong stand on issues he sees as important.

"I was brought up to stand behind what I believe in. I guess I get to feeling responsible, and having to do some thing. Touch upon things, change them, work them out."
But Don' is a complicated character, and his music shows it. You're just as likely to find a song about love gone wrong on one of his records as you are to find a time about say-Ing our rivers.

Some see Don McLean as a folk slitger, others as a populating but he is both of those and a songpoet as well. His and he's singing about problems and experiences that
